Title: POLICE TECHNICAL's Cell Phone Tactics Course Meets Challenges Head-on with New Instructor, Ed Merritt

Short Title: POLICE TECHNICAL Solves the Cell Phone Dilemma with Cell Phone Tactics

Date of Release: August 25, 2014

When law enforcement personnel examine a building or area, cell phone data can either make or break the investigation. POLICE TECHNICAL has added a new course to the schedule for 2015 that will solve this problem: Cell Phone Tactics.

Tactical officers are taught to contain a situation, but they have no control over data. The Cell Phone Tactics course that POLICE TECHNICAL provides shows officers how to overcome that obstacle.

"This course provides personnel with the foundation to leverage cell phones, service providers, and other sources to improve law enforcement's response to critical situations," said Ed Merritt, Instructor for POLICE TECHNICAL, Cell Phone Tactics. "Students attending this course of instruction will learn how to secure the digital perimeter in a critical incident."

Merritt's class isn't offered anywhere else, making it one of a kind. When POLICE TECHNICAL chose to offer the course, Merritt's specialty made him the most qualified, said Thomas Manson, Founder and CEO of POLICE TECHNICAL.

Cell Phone Tactics "serves a new audience for POLICE TECHNICAL," Manson said. "Not only is [Merritt] the best choice, he was the obvious choice."

Merritt shatters previously held beliefs about what can be done using cell phones. The tactical officer uses the information gained from the POLICE TECHNICAL Cell Phone Tactics course to make changes within his department.

Law enforcement personnel will become trained first responders concerning mobile device seizure. This Cell Phone Tactics course creates a nationally recognized standard for testifying about data obtained from call detail records in court.

Law enforcement need a course to train them on how to obtain vital information from cell phones the correct way, especially in high-risk situations. Cell Phone Tactics by POLICE TECHNICAL is the course.

POLICE TECHNICAL is a national law enforcement training company located in Terre Haute, Ind. The company currently employs 18 instructors, who teach and maintain 15 courses in five certification tracks
